Lean Innovations For Excellence

The Continual Excellence Journey

The threat from competition is escalating, and as a consequence, it is not surprising that adoption of Lean philosophy in Indian organizations is growing dramatically. Organizations today are looking at ways & means to design & Implement their strategy and operations in order to align their businesses in line with the needs of the customers. The complete “Supplier-Customer” eco-system is undergoing a consistent continual change as a result organizations not only have to align themselves, but they have to do it fast and that too by involving people. The challenge is you cannot “Order Change”, it’s a process, which once understood takes the organization to a completely different level by making its competition irrelevant. Philosophy of Lean enables organization to adjust itself with the needs of the customer, align its strategy and design a operations system which takes it to the path of Continual Excellence

So far, the Indian players are effectively playing the cost games, but some of the reasonable ones are using the methodology to achieve perfection and excellence in their work and to become a truly “World-Class Company” by identifying not only “where” to do the improvements but also how to implement the same in a planned manner so that the gains are sustainable and the Culture starts to reflect the same.

One cannot implement the methodology unless he absorbs the right concepts & tools, and uses the same in his own domain.

 % improvement shall be set for each asset during the Leadership alignment session

The “Mechanics” of Lean Culture

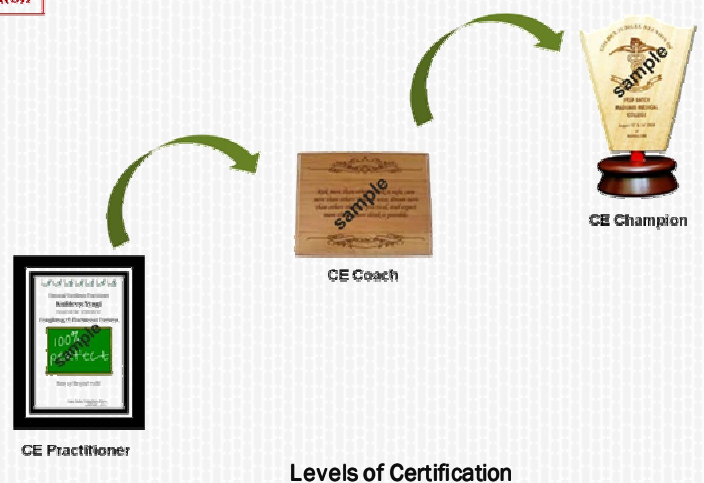

We at LICG understand the “Mechanics” of a Lean Culture., and hence our approach is “Thinking Driven” rather than the traditional “Tools Driven”. The “Thinking” determines the methods to be followed which in turn helps select the tools which need to be used to solve the problem. LICG’s comprehensive Problem Solving tool box enables organizations to pick and choose the most relevant ones, enabling Continual Improvements (Kaizen) and Radical Transformations (Kaikaku)

Our unique “Seed & Grow” Philosophy supports the “Culture Conversion” process within the organization. Our comprehensive training and certification programs supported by real life simulations and exercises ensure solid understanding of the concepts and techniques. The learning is further strengthened when we facilitate the people and help them implement improvements in their respective areas. We call it “Lean Engineering” – Learning by Doing , because we not only focus on “know-how” but on “know-why” as well.

Training & Certification

LICG’s training and certification program is the most relevant & comprehensive in today’s rapidly changing business environment. The levels of certification is designed in a way to deliver maximum impact to the organization’s Continual Excellence Journey. The trainings are supported by real life simulations, experiential learning and exercises to strengthen the knowledge of the participants. The contents of the programs are a mixture of Kaizen, Kaikaku ,Six Sigma & Innovation tools to enable the maximum learning to solve the most complex problems of today’s business.
